Course description and objectives:

This course is required of all students in the IBMS program, except for those who have signed up for Final Hours. Students are required to attend a minimum of 16 seminars per semester and to complete a requirement to demonstrate their attendance and participation. This seminar series constitutes the Barshop Institute/Pepper Center Aging seminar series and includes speakers with expertise in the basic biology of aging as well as translational approaches to improve healthy aging.

Through attendance to this seminar, students will 1) learn and discuss various research areas focused on aging and age-related disease, 2) promote interactions with internationally-recognized experts in the field, 3) increase their opportunities for networking and career development.

Pre-requisites: graduate student standing

Semester credit hours: 1.5

Attendance: Students are required to attend a minimum of 16 seminars over the semester. To fulfill the minimum number of seminars, students may include seminars offered by disciplines other than their own in which they are enrolled. However, students should obtain approval from the course co-director of their individual discipline. Students will contact the course director if they missed or are unable to attend a seminar (sick; scientific travel/meeting) and the course director can make the allowance or not.

Grading system: Grading will be Satisfactory or Unsatisfactory and based on attendance and submission of evaluation forms to course director.

Course guidelines, grading policies and examination procedures:

Attendance is recorded through submission of evaluation forms (provided by director) for each seminar. Evaluations should present some level of critical thinking regarding the seminar. Evaluation forms will be emailed to course director no later than the Fri following seminar.

Students are required to keep track of their own attendance by maintain a personal record of evaluation forms.

Seminar series is scheduled from 3:30 – 5. Students are expected to be present through the duration of seminar and question/answer period. Students are also expected to participate in question and answer period to promote interaction with speakers.

Cell phone and computer use should be kept to a minimum during the seminar series. These seminars are for your benefit.

TITLE IX AT UTHSCSA

Title IX Defined:

Title of the Education Amendments of 1972 is a federal law that prohibits sex discrimination in education. It reads “no person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance.”

University of Texas Health Science Center San Antonio’s Commitment:

University of Texas Health Science Center San Antonio (UTHSCSA) is committed to maintaining a learning environment that is free from discriminatory conduct based on gender. As required by Title IX, UTHSCSA does not discriminate on the basis of sex in its education programs and activities, and it encourages any student, faculty, or staff member who thinks that he or she has been subjected to sex discrimination, sexual harassment (including sexual violence) or sexual misconduct to immediately report the incident to the Title IX Director.

In an emergency, victims of sexual abuse should call 911. For non-emergencies, they may contact UPD at 210-567-2800. Additional information may be obtained at <http://students.uthscsa.edu/titleix/>
