COURSE DESCRIPTION AND OBJECTIVES

This course is required of all students in the IBMS program, except for those who have signed up for Final Hours. Students are required to attend a minimum of 16 seminars per semester and to complete a requirement to demonstrate their attendance and participation. To fulfill the minimum number of seminars, students may include seminars offered by disciplines other than their own in which they are enrolled. A list of seminars from all disciplines will be posted on the Graduate School Web site. Each discipline Course Co-Director will determine, for the discipline, the policy for tracking student's attendance and participation in seminars. The individual policy for each discipline is described below.

IBMS 6090-6BMM, Biochemical Mechanisms in Medicine

Course Co-Director: David S. Libich, Ph.D.

Students registered in IBMS 6090-6BMM should attend an average of 1 faculty seminar per week, or a total of not less than 16 seminars per semester. These 16 seminars must include all seminars sponsored by the Department of Biochemistry and Structural Biology, but the student is free to select from seminars sponsored by other departments in order to achieve this level of attendance if an insufficient number are offered by the Department of Biochemistry and Structural Biology, or if an unavoidable absence causes the student to miss a Department of Biochemistry and Structural Biology -sponsored seminar. Students may be excused from one seminar per semester for a valid reason (e.g. illness, death in family, attendance of scientific meetings). The Course Co-Director should be notified by email of any anticipated absence no later than the day before the seminar and for unanticipated absences within one day of the seminar.

Student sign-in sheets provided at seminar sites will be used to determine student attendance at all Biochemistry and Structural Biology sponsored seminars. Students are responsible for ensuring they have signed in. A list of all attended seminars may also be required at the end of term. Students can, of course, attend and comment on more than 16 seminars per semester if they wish. Attendance at symposiums/conferences/meetings can be substituted for a seminar attendance but prior approval must be obtained from the Course Co-Director. To assist in developing each student's own presentation skills, the student will post (via email to libich@uthscsa.edu) a brief comment (2-4 sentences), summarizing the strengths and weaknesses, both in presentation style and content, of each seminar they attend.

Pre-requisites: None

Semester credit hours: 1.5 SCH

By the end of this course, each student should be able to:

- Develop critical thinking skills in analyzing scientific data being presented
- Assess the effectiveness of different presentation styles
- Develop their own presentation skills and style

TITLE IX AT UTHSCSA

Title IX Defined: Title of the Education Amendments of 1972 is a federal law that prohibits sex discrimination in education. It reads “no person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance.”

University of Texas Health Science Center San Antonio’s Commitment: University of Texas Health Science Center San Antonio (UTHSCSA) is committed to maintaining a learning environment that is free from discriminatory conduct based on gender. As required by Title IX, UTHSCSA does not discriminate on the basis of sex in its education programs and activities, and it encourages any student, faculty, or staff member who thinks that he or she has been subjected to sex discrimination, sexual harassment (including sexual violence) or sexual misconduct to immediately report the incident to the Title IX Director.

In an emergency, victims of sexual abuse should call 911. For non-emergencies, they may contact UPD at 210-567- 2800. Additional information may be obtained at <http://students.uthscsa.edu/titleix/>

EMAIL POLICY

Every student is issued a University e-mail address and account at the time of enrollment. As a matter of University Policy, communications between students and faculty that occur using the student's University e-mail address is considered official business. Therefore, students are expected to check their university email inboxes on a regular basis so that any announcements, instructions, or information regarding this course will be received in a timely way. Missed communications due to inadequate monitoring of incoming emails on the University's email server will never be a valid excuse for unsatisfactory academic progress
